

Family Law splits

For Accumulation, Executive Scheme, Electrical Contractors and Rollover and Account-Based Pension Plan members (Pool A), the Family Law Act takes account of superannuation entitlements when negotiating settlements resulting from marriage breakdowns and for the 'splitting' of those entitlements between the parties involved.

The first step

The member, their spouse (including de facto spouses and same sex partners) and a representative of the Court have the right to obtain details of the member's superannuation entitlements. A member's prospective spouse also has the right to obtain those details.

The Family Law Act prohibits us from giving a member's address details to an applicant and from telling a member that an application for details has been made by their spouse or prospective spouse.

The Family Law Act requires that an application for these details (Valuation Request) include a declaration in a form prescribed under the Regulations. A fee is also payable by the applicant (see overleaf). Attached is an Energy Industries Superannuation Scheme Application for Information (form 6) under the Family Law Act that includes the declaration. Alternatively, a prescribed form may be used and an application made by letter.

Information is provided as at the date specified in the application. If the EISS form is not used, the applicant will need to specify the relevant date at which the information provided is to apply. This could, for example, be the date of separation.

If no date is specified, the relevant date is taken to be the date we receive the application.

What happens next?

Upon receipt of a Valuation Request, we will provide the applicant with the value of the member's superannuation entitlements at the relevant date, together with various other information. This other information may be needed in order to establish a basis for apportioning those superannuation entitlements between the respective parties.

We will not, however, provide any advice as to what might be an equitable basis for apportioning those entitlements. That is a matter for the respective parties to reach agreement on or else have the Family Court do so. It must be kept in mind, though, that all or part of a superannuation entitlement might be subject to compulsory preservation and that there might also be taxation issues to consider. The information we provide will enable these issues to be taken into account.

Superannuation can be divided either by Agreement of the parties or by Court Order.

For the Trustee to action any Agreement, it needs to comply with Family Law requirements and be served on the Trustee. Alternatively, if the parties cannot agree on the way in which to split their assets, the Family Court can make Orders, which include a direction from the court as to splitting, and these would be served on the Trustee.

The Trustee shall then 'notate' the member's records and shall comply with the procedures for 'splitting' set out in the Family Law Act. The 'base amount' adjusted for interest will be transferred to the rollover institution of the non-member spouse's choice in accordance with the terms of the Agreement or Order.

It is to be noted that if the member's benefit is less than $5,000, it cannot be 'split'.

Non-member spouse's entitlement

The non-member spouse entitlement is specified by the Court Order or Agreement as a dollar amount or as a percentage of the value (base amount) of the accrued benefit.

In either case, we are required to roll over the amount involved into a separate superannuation account in the name of the spouse. The only exception to this is where the total amount is not subject to compulsory preservation. In this case, the spouse can request direct payment of the total amount.

Where the member is in Pool A, including the Accumulation Scheme, Executive Scheme, Electrical Contracts Division, Rollover Plan or Account-Based Pension Plan, the spouse can direct us to open a separate account within Pool A, or else roll over the entitlement to another complying superannuation scheme or other approved rollover fund. The default arrangement in the absence of any direction is that a separate account will be established within the Rollover Plan.

The amounts paid into a spouse's account will include the same proportions of the various preservation and taxation components as in the member's own account.

Member's reduced benefits entitlement

The 'splitting' of a member's entitlements in Pool A is achieved simply by reducing the member's account balance by the base amount at the operative time.

The member will be notified of the finalisation of the payment to the non-member spouse and the adjustment made to the member's account will be shown on the next periodic statement.

Fees

The following fees are payable for the provision of Family Law information and for the actual 'splitting of the benefit'.

Pool A (including Divisions A, E, F & N)

Request for Family Law information*	$110 (incl. GST)
Benefit Split fee	$88 (incl. GST)

* This fee is payable by the person requesting the information and should be in the form of a cheque or money order made payable to the Scheme.

** This fee is generally payable by the member and non-member spouse in equal parts ($44 each). However, if the non-member spouse is entitled to the whole amount of a splittable payment, the entire amount is payable by the non-member spouse. The member's share of the fee is deducted from the member's account and the non-member spouse's share is deducted from the non-member spouse's splittable payment prior to the transfer of the payment.

Please note, separate cheques or money orders will be required if you are requesting information relating to more than one member account.
